

Pain, Army Of The Bored

in the campaign of lonely, hungry boys few make plans and see them through there is strength in numbers, strength encumbers all of those who try to see them through coping with things beyond their control with lights and fights and cigarette smoke they hope to command an impressive show if only for their own peace of mind they hope to command an impressive blow
if only for their own peace of mind
the likes of these cannot be contained by promises, laughter, or time passionate are their intentions coveted now is their membership to the army of the lonely, hungry boys who follow outdated principles and whose dreams spur them on still at least they didn't sleep the day away
and whose dreams spur them on still
at least they didn't sleep the day away
the likes of these cannot be contained
by promises, laughter, or time
passionate are their intentions
coveted now is their membership
to the army of the lonely, hungry boys
who follow outdated principles without which they couldn't even bear without which they couldn't bear to dare