

Pain Of Salvation, Plains Of Dawn

"I'm here now, by your side"

Sheltered from the cold, a soldier guards a boy.

Clocks are cutting as times pass by their pain

''1:'' bringing release

''2:'' keep trying,

''1:'' through t

''2:'' keep trying,

''1:'' on his kn

''2:'' keep dying inside

"Hush now little child, it's time to say goodnight.

Find rest in my lullaby this night

''1:'' I'll still be

''2:'' keep falling

''3:'' blind figures

''1:'' here whe

''2:'' keep falling

''3:'' controlling

''1:'' nightmist

''2:'' keep falling down now

''3:'' his life

''1:'' Have faith my son - reach for my hand and I'll walk with you till the sun goes down.

Follow me now, we will meet again in your land.

''2:'' have faith my son

''1:'' Now I'll lead you home

''1:'' Opening stillness, reaching through

illness

''2:'' They walk in

nightmist

''1:'' At last, we meet again. I'm so close to you

now

''3:'' Again we laugh

Where shallow waters reach for unknown mystic shores

they gaze at the horizon and smile

</lyrics>

(Solo: Daniel Gildenlw)

</lyrics>

"Behold my son -

reach for the vision that fills your mind,

just let go and run.

Follow the path that was meant for you

long ago behold my sonAnd cross the plains of

dawn

Wordless questions, tearful2

They meet atl nowwhen it is time to go separate</div style="border-left: 2px solid black; margin-

fadingpages

They have touched through ages

''1:'' Remember me my son, it's time to say...goodbye.

I'll free you from your prison - now</div style="border-left: 2px solid black; margin-top: 2px;&

''2:'' winning a war

''3:'' keep running

''4:'' You're free

now

''3:'' keep running

''2:'' made him lose

"4:" the wave

meets the sho

"3:" keep running home kid

"2:" evermore

"Farewell my son -

the tubes that were straining you to a death within life are gone.

Wait for us, I and your mother will cherish you my son.

I cry as I'm watching you run across plains of dawn."

...and so through that evening

a soldier is leaving his son once again and a war has been lost...

Forlorn he is reeling, unmendably kneeling.

But fate leaves no choice: now he must close the book!