

Pain Teens, God Told Me

God told me to do it, in fact he said I must
I wouldn't think to doubt him, the only one I trust
He said to kill a million of them every day
And then I will be holy when I kneel down to pray
The world is full of weakness, and weakness can't prevail
The stronger ones must crush the weak,
Strength and self-esteem can't fail
So God told me to do it, all the little girls and boys are mine alone to prey upon, but I'm the prey, I can't go on
There is no God, what have I done?
