Palace, Make You Proud

She was heaven sent On the wings of Something blessed I'm a jealous man with jealous bones Cut my tongue on words we never had So wise so young I never thought I'd breathe again

Never thought I'd breathe again Never thought I'd breathe again Never thought I'd breathe again

And I hope I make you proud Because I'd follow your way Pick me Up from the ground Intertwined we lay Intertwined we lay

There's an ocean breadth across our heartbeat Your head on my chest is sweeter than I've ever known The nights still young Just stay forever There's rust on my tongue But I'm moving onto better things

I'm moving onto better things I'm moving onto better things I'm moving onto better things

And I hope I make you proud Because I'd follow your way Pick me up from the ground Intertwined we lay Intertwined we lay The sun will shine today

And I hope I make you proud Because I'd follow your way Pick me up from the ground Intertwined we lay The sun will shine today Never felt this way
