Pale Forest, Mentally Deranged

There's that something in your eyes again I can't get you to speak I try to catch your gaze Are you watching someone else?

I try to hold you up, but you go limp and you feel so cold I try to get you to communicate but you are stuck, controlling your own fate

Can you hear me? I think maybe not Can you bear me? holding on to what I haven't got

And so I swallow the bitter pill turn my back and head for home Tears in my eyes and fading will please don't leave me alone

Can you hear me? I think maybe not Can you bear me? holding on to what I haven't got

A snap of fingers and you're back again your eyes turn to warm But there is something which will now be changed now I'm the mentally deranged

Can you hear me? I think maybe not Can you bear me? holding on to what I haven't got