

Paloma Faith, Pressure ft. Kojey Radical

Oh my mind, it's wearing thin
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face
No peace I have found
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face

Oh my mind, it's wearing thin
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face
No peace I have found
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face

There's only so much I can take when
When I ain't got no delay
Just the midnight damn regrets
I keep pushing and I'm breaking
Everyone's uncertainty
Meaning roads all leave to me

I'm a fixer
And I'm mixed up
And I'm smiling
But I'm broken deep inside
Only human
No illusions
There's no one to carry me
I'm holding on

Oh my mind, it's wearing thin
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face
No peace I have found
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face

Bubble might burst when the champagne clinking
The voice screaming at me so I still can't think
Too much about the moment plus it won't change shit
Digging my own grave on that midnight shift
More money more problems, I could spend it for the hell of it
Nearly had to get a therapist for my therapist
If I had penny every time, I'd be very rich
Tears ran dry, thought I'd never see the end of it
I know I've got tendencies
Tend to hide the rest of it
Hide them with a smile until I know that I can tend to it
Whoever said boys don't cry was a menace
My son cries all the time and I'm jealous
Can't speak, still found the language with the pain
Daddy cries too, I just hide it in the game
Built myself up just to knock it down again
Picked up all the pieces, but it never was the same

Don't get the best of me
I ain't losing sleep
But when my head's too loud and I'm full of doubt
Makes me wanna scream

Oh my mind, it's wearing thin
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face
No peace I have found

Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face

Oh my mind, it's wearing thin
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face
No peace I have found
Against the pressure I face
The pressure I face