

Pandemonium, Left Behind

As I shrink into the shadows I remember what was then There is something missing
Like a piece of me...

Haunting mists are following me
you will never be again

Like a ship, on the everflowing seas
ever drifting away
life's light blown out by a wind of unbeing
could do nothing more,
it was all lost, when you died.

Left behind I can recall what you knew and what you were All these thoughts and memories unable to share

Haunting mists are following me
you will never be again

Like a ship, on the everflowing seas
ever drifting away
life's light blown out by a wind of unbeing
could do nothing more,
it was all lost, when you died.

Left behind

The starlit passages of rain that fall Infernal memories of dreams we had, now ever in the shadows of the dead.

Alone I sit and wonder what went wrong a sparkling candle, then you are gone
The pain that's glowing in my heart
Who would have known you would so swiftly depart?

Life's light blown out by a wind of unbeing
could do nothing more,
it was all lost, when you died.

In mourning now, we stare at the remnants of a life so glorious.
Never to see, never to be, evermore rushing at futile flickers of hope in the dusk,
I am

Left behind