Panzer AG, It Is All In Your Head

Alone again my friend I know it's lonely, I've been there as well Crowded rooms seem so empty The color on the wall turns grey your soul is about to collapse your heart bleeds, only empty thoughts exist Everything you've ever done seems pointless Helpless, you can't think at all

Stop searching for answers it's all in your head You're already dead

Sudden death is so inviting No personality left at all I know just what you're thinging left behind by those you depended on Can't think straight, It's all in your head No matter the world is still the same Time will never be your ally Fragile you can't breath at all

Maybe they never meant to hurt you I guess no one is to blame Daily you're picking up the pieces Searching for the life you had