

Paramore, Sanity

Sanity, why must you make a fool of me?
You've been a friend to me now I think that were enemies

If I fall on my knees
I hear you laughing
If I call out your name
You don't come

No one home but the void is loud
(This must be the void)
Echoes around my empty house
(This must be the void)
Sentences are slowing down
This must be the void they always talk about

This must be the void

Levity, fill me up let me flow
I'll let you take care of me
You can help me let go

If I fall on my knees
I hear you laughing
If I call out your name
You don't come

No one home but the void is loud
(This must be the void)
Echoes around my empty house
(This must be the void)
Sentences are slowing down
This must be the void they always talk about

Finally I have arrived
Finally I have arrived
And there is nothing to see
Finally I have arrived
And there is nothing to breathe
Finally I have arrived

No one home but the void is loud
(This must be the void)
Echoes around my empty house
(This must be the void)
Sentences are slowing down
This must be the void they always talk about