

Pat Green, If I Had A Million

If I had a million I would build you a mansion, a hundred miles from nowhere with all a girl could need,
We would run through the hallways and dance in the backyard, if we ain't got no neighbors ain't noone will see.
and if I had a speed plane we'd fly across the land, settle in some little border town, we'd drink margaritas and dance to mariachis, put you on my speed plane and I would bring you back home.
and if I had a steamboat we'd sail across the ocean, dock in some little port of call, we would have a fine time with Swiss cheese and French wine, put you on my steamboat and I would bring you back home.
But I ain't got a million and I ain't got a speed plane, I ain't got no boat upon the sea, all I've got is two strong arms to hold you so tightly, so baby won't you, won't you please, come back home with me.
