Paul Weller, Who Brings Joy

you who brings joy into the world makes me swirl of such love and all you ask in return is to be loved and love you i must compelled by god or some invisible force i just want so much to be here for you you my darling who brings so much joy every laugh has an echo every movement a feat i humble in your complexion so perfect so complete you who brings joy into the world in your eyes lie a heaven in your voice sweet caress it is you who takes over whose gentle arms i rest you who brings joy into the world makes me swirl of such love