Pedestrian, Hummingbird On A Wire

The house is on fire let it burn to the ground Maybe this explains why I've kept you around The world is getting heavy so I think I might sleep I get lost in the tele so I don't have to think

These are all temporary cures Something to remove my head from its position Just a quick fix from the burn Until I get distracted again

Plenty of this, I've got plenty of that Perhaps a little more would keep me intact Running all directions yet having nowhere to go I think I'm going crazy 'cause I've locked all the doors

These are all temporary cures Something to remove my head from its position Just a quick fix from the burn Until I get distracted again

Please settle down My mind's gone abstract Please settle down My mind's gone mental

These are all temporary cures Something to remove my head from its position Just a quick fix from the burn Until I get distracted again
