

Pennywise, Who's To Blame

one day you'll have to ask yourself am I doing what I want for someone else from that day forward you'll find that living you're better off when you answer to yourself and when its time to take a stance tune them out inside your brain everyone will tell you lies they'll cheat then laugh at your demise tell me who's to blame some day when you look back and you take time in the past was I doing all I really could that one step forward a better life wasn't all that hard now that you're living like you should I am a firm believer sovereign minded high achiever solid in my sense of worth and goals philosophies are meant to trick you missionaries out to get you hell is full of cons and suckered souls