

Perry Como, In the garden

I come to the garden alone, While the dew is still on the roses, And the voice I hear falling on my ears