

Pete Townshend, Politician

People come to me for exclamations
Don't understand what they say
This is the age of intuition
Things look a little different every day

I have a little trouble, To keep on getting angry with the world
But I feel a little better when ever I say to myself
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
I know when I'm right, And I know when I'm wrong
And I know because I can feel it, that's how I get along

Their he comes the politician, Their he comes (Wacha want)

Now do you think, Of polls of whipping

Or do you claim that on the law
Well the book don't talk about no tripping
And the book don't talk about no war

I have a little trouble, To keep on getting angry with the world
But I feel a little smoother when I say to myself
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
I know when I'm right, And I know when I'm wrong
And I know because I can feel it, that's how I get along
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
I know when I'm right, I know when I'm wrong
And I know when I'm right, And I know when I'm wrong
AI know when I'm right, And I know when I'm wrong
