Peter Green, Last Train To San Antone

Last time I saw you, you were standing by the railroad, You had your suitcase in your hand I tried to stop you - but I only lost you On the last train to San Antone

The minute that your eyes, were captured by his attention I knew that you would travel far 'n just like a rolling stone Yeah, you left me here alone On the last train to San Antone

San Antone, San Antone your on your way You ain't coming home I lost you baby Now, there's no place for me to go On the last train to San Antone

Break:

Now, I see the smoke stack, as it heads for the horizon And in a moment you'll be gone Just like that puff a smoke Yes, you left me here to choke On the last train to San Antone

San Antone, San Antone, you're on your way You ain't coming home I lost you baby Now, there's no place for me to go On the last train to San Antone Last train to San Antone