

Peter Hammill, Been Alone So Long

Been alone so long that I've forgotten what it's like to feel somebody next to me and hear her breathing peacefully when I wake up at night.

Been alone so long that I've forgotten what to say - if I meet somebody who might easily resemble you I smile, but look away...
I look away.

Been alone so long
that I've forgotten what to do: how to make the whole thing right and how to help if she's uptight and when to run and when to fight... how to make her stay the night - that's if I ever knew.

Been alone so long
that I've forgotten what it's like
to feel somebody next to me
and hear her breathing peacefully
when I wake up at night,
wake up at night