PFR, You

You thought You could reach the sky Never knew it was much too high

You believed that you could change The world with love yeah love how strange

Every war that You fought was not in vain If someones set free Every scar You've endured every bit of pain Has left its mark on me

Those You've touched cant stay the same Now the angels say Your Name

Every war that You fought was not in vain If someones set free Every scar You've endured every bit of pain Has left its mark on me