

Phillips Craig And Dean, No Matter How Long

I watched you as you stumbled out of bed
Rushed out the door your coffee in your hand
And you looked so lost and lonely
I knew I had to find a way
To make you understand, I wanna be your friend
So I painted a sunrise in the sky
And I caused the birds to sing you lullabies
And I whispered sweet "I love you's"
In the breeze that brushed your face
You didn't even see, you never noticed Me
No matter how long it takes, somehow I'll find a way
No matter how far you run, there's no distance that's too great
'Cause when the wind blows through the treetops
And in the music of the rain
Somehow My love will find a way
No Matter how long it takes
I watched you as you fell asleep last night
And I trembled as I watched the tears you cried
So I splashed your face with moonlight, and I longed for your embrace
You never called My name, I loved you just the same
In the laughter of the children
I'll be calling out your name
Somehow My love will find a way
Somehow My love will find a way
My love will find a way
No matter how long it takes
