

Picture House, Raining Stones

(browne/maitland)

Fade into day
It's a marvel of opium grey
I can't feel a thing
My head's on a string
Being led by the hand of a stranger
Welcome to where ever else in the world that you are Slow motion kodachrome people are waving from cars
Who do you think we are?

(Chorus)
I know something 'bout us that you don't know
And I've found something out that I can't let show
Now the lines have grown into skin and bone
And it's raining stones
But I can't feel them

Two you and me
When we walk into town we are three
The cold city smiles I drift in denial
Of the distance that's standing between us

Biting the hands of the people who feed us with care
Waking up shouting at someone when no-one is there
It's not that I'm scared of myself

(Chorus)
