

Pink Cream 69, Waiting For The Dawn

throw away the key nothing else can set me free chain me to my soul accomplish of the crimes they've told the day will never come when i see the rising sun on a rotting bed forgotten sins run through my head

if i could be part of that world outside my window
if i could be forgiven

forever in a rusty cage
forever i conceal this rage although the dusk will soon be come alone in the silence waiting for the dawn step into my mind tell me of the things you find i need to understand i'm no longer in command forgiven i won't be a guilty man that's all they see shadows on the wall count the seconds till they fall

forever in a rusty cage
forever i conceal this rage
although the dusk will soon be come my only choice is to go on
forever in a rusty cage
forever i conceal this rage
although the dusk will soon be come
alone in the silence waiting for the dawn

no escape, blinded by the force my heart aces, won't you set me free

if i could be part of that
world outside my window
if i could be forgiven
but i'm just livin...

i'm waiting for the dawn
i'm waiting for the dawn