

Places To Park, Greatest Story

is this how you thought it would start this chapter's yours, you got your part, your greatest story the text is bold, it's all here the words are plain, the message clear, your greatest story read it out loud, your friends can hear you fought your tears with anger, your anger full of fear fear that the end of your sweet stay was near and in the back of your mind the story ends the way you pictured it to end one day I can't promise you the pain will disappear and I will change you told your story now - you told your story then no question about how just will it be again