

Places To Park, Martesia

how do you deal with perfect weather since you found you had just one chance to heal the pain you feel that comes from no time to explain the way you left without a trace of where we've been or what you've seen since you came back to this place you don't ever notice and you don't ever see you won't ever notice and you won't ever see how do you find the time to get along along the way is not easy as you once would like to say from here to there is just a bridge crossing through the waterway that wasn't there but from day one you never saw the love was there please don't look away your eyes are the only thing that I will never find from here until never one trip took away the one tap on the shoulder that turned me around forever please don't wait until next year, perfect weather doesn't last that long