

Places To Park, So Different

ah ha you broke the mold, you broke the code of being different ah ha you took control, you sold your soul to the ones that need that you sang your song and I listened and now you're listening to me you helped me find something that was missing and what was missing was a song by me now you sing along with me, now you sing my song with me now ah ha you stole the show and the code you broke was never broken ah ha you let them know you're in the mold the mold you took control of