Planet Smashers, No Matter What You Say

Question marks in the dark making hard to start always never knowing suddenly I can see how the path lies for me it's time to get going I perceive your concern And I try to relate you say I should be staying You resist and insist telling me to beware Like you've already been there No matter what you say, I'm on my way No matter what you say, I'll do it anyway I say to each his own all is told it is wrong Not to recognize this I'm aware of your advice I really do understand I hear what you're saying No matter what you say, I'm on my way No matter what you say, I'll do it anyway

No more misunderstanding, I won't be caught demanding Of your reassurance cause it has no con No matter what you say, I'm on my way

No matter what you say, I'll do it anyway
