Plumb, Sent Angels

Send angels, send angels, send angels
Show me you love me
Send angels, send angels, send angels
Show me you love me
He felt alone and aging unkind
He knew there was trouble with this war inside
So to feel young he did what he felt best
Emptiness filling every vein
He must be going insane
To leave an entire world behind
[Repeat Chorus]
Crying the tears he lost as a child
He couldn't even recognize
The frail and injured man that he'd become Traces of his compromise
Shattering his desperate tries
Everyone makes a mistake now and then
[Repeat Chorus]
