

Plus/Minus, Thrown Into The Fire

it was born from high school headphones it kept you company at the wheel hidden under pillow cases blasting from suburban basements holding you under the spell on an hour long cassette the wind has let a feeling gone

???
the last time with the record on the stories that the numbers gotten all the magic thrown into the fire and now the mystery's gone posters torn from the walls no more time for understatement moving forward to find spaces wading through the melodies missing continuity and so easy that the feeling's gone the transitions between the songs the pacing and the side breaks or were they lost within the flames

all the magic thrown into the fire