

Podunk, A Little More

She's on the cover of a magazine
She is beautiful
She's every little boys poster queen
She is beautiful

It's almost pitiful
It's so habitual

And she's ok for a day
Until she needs a little more
And if not now, maybe then
She'll just walk right out the door

She's rides to places in a limousine
She is beautiful
Her nails are plastic and her deep blue jeans
Are painted on

It's almost pitiful
The same ol' ritual

And she's ok for a day
Until she needs a little more
And if not now, maybe then
She'll just walk right out the door

Uh, she likes her diamonds
See her name lit in gold
Take some good advice son
And find a big legged woman
With a lot of soul

She's ok for a day
Until she needs a little more
And if not now, maybe then
She'll just walk right out the door

She's ok for a day
Until she needs a little more
And if not now, maybe then
She'll just walk right out the door, yeah