Poets Of The Fall, Late Goodbye (Theme From M

In our headlights Staring, bleak Beer cans Deer's eyes

On the asphalt Underneath Our crushed plans And my lies

Lonely street signs Power lines They keep on flashing Flashing by

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye

Your breath Hot upon my cheek And we crossed That line

You made me strong When I was feeling weak And we crossed That one time

Screaming stop signs Staring wild eyes Keep on flashing Flashing by

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye

The devil grins from ear to ear when he sees the hand he's dealt us Points at your flaming hair and then we're playin' hide and seek

I can't breathe easy here 'less our trail's gone cold behind us 'Til then the john mirror you stare at yourself grown old and weak

We keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night It's a late goodbye Such a late goodbye

And we keep driving into the night...
