Point Of Grace, The House That Mercy Built

Words & Drant Cunningham & Drant Huesmann

A light in the distance Welcomes those wayfaring souls Come this far A heart grows tired, faith grows cold Wandering down the winding road Just simply knock, the door will open

There is a house that mercy built There is a place where brokenness is healed There is a voice saying peace be still There is a house that mercy built

Mercy will find you
Though you've given up
In the middle of what seems like nowhere
He'll shelter you beneath His wing
His love will cover every need
Just simply seek and you will find

There is a house that mercy built There is a place where emptiness is filled There is a voice saying peace be still There is a house that mercy built

There is a house that mercy built With blood and tears We've nothing left to fear We live in grace Here in the safe embrace of God The mercy of God

There is a house that mercy built
There is a place where grace has
Been revealed
There is a voice saying peace be still
There is a house that mercy built
Rest in the hope
Rest in the peace
There is a house that mercy built
