Polar Bear Club, Convinced I'm Wrong

Don't try and sound right, just hope your honest

Trust you'll end up somewhere

That girl that made you promise

she says "try not to care"

I don't know if I'm good, and everyone knows it

You ever feel you were meant to be alone?

Because I saw a play and and a character said that he was destined to never feel at home

Don't go tonight, I'm looking for salt in a snow globe

Because what I had is slipping fast.

Dr. Howe, Please call back

I'm not sleeping in, I don't care

I'm singing loud but no one hears

I'll wake up tomorrow and still feel wrong for these days

What I had is slipping fast

Dr. Howe Please call me back.

What good am I to anyone like this?

It's been a hard couple months I'll admit

After tonight I'm not so convinced that I'm wrong

I feel at ease with my lows, and I'll take it.

Lord knows I'll take it.

Tonight they're explainable, far from extraneous.

Always expectant

I seldom discover or turn flaws into questions.

Great questions of the times.

I guess I'm an artist who's confines brought him luck choked by second guessing I know that's not enough.
