

Polar Bear Club, Our Ballads

'Round the corner from me lives a lawyer/rocker age 53

He's got two kids, both girls.

23 and 17 you know they mean the world to him.

But Mr. Lawyer, he's not the point. He heard my band

And had to give an account of what he liked and what he hated,

Mentioned we alienated girls from boys.

You see I was angry, I was crushed and I know these words

Just won't be enough.

And I'll come home at night and crawl in my bed so cold

And rest will never come.

When I scream, it certainly isn't for machismo.

Not intimidation or gender segregation

I just needed more from the words I sang but you can't understand.

So you're saying that a female only listens to ballads and love songs? The girls that I know wouldn't

But according to you our songs should separate all the girls from the boys.
