Polica, Wandering Star

Ooh, ooh

When the day is done And I lay me down I sit alone in my lonely bed And I think about The day we had And it makes me sad 'cause you're gone

When the day is done And I lay me down This sheet's so cold And your space is dark And I hear you whispering something sweet And it doesn't move me and it knows me

When the day is done And I lay me down I sit alone in my lonely bed And I think about The day we had And it makes me sad 'cause you're gone

After all I'm married to the wandering star I kissed his moon It was full and I fell in love with thee But now, the world turns around me Turns around me Turns around me Turns around me

When the day is done And I lay me down This sheet's so cold And your place is dark And I hear you whispering something sweet And it doesn't move and it knows me

After all, I'm married to the wandering star I kissed his moon It was full and I fell in love with thee But now the world turns around me

After all, I'm married to the wandering star I kissed his moon It was full and I fell in love with thee But now the world turns around me

When the day is done And I lay me down This sheet's so cold And your space is dark And I hear you whispering something sweet And it doesn't move and it knows me
