Polkadot Cadaver, Long Strange Trip To Paradise

Born in a coffin with lipstick on your cheek I can't look away, I can't look away Where have you been all night Your eyes are swollen shut You can't see a thing, now can you

Valley girls in love with the decadence Blindfolded, purging up the vanity A kiss like a near death experience Sitting in the backseat of your daddy's car Oh yeah

Buy the ticket, buy the ticket Take the ride On the long strange trip to paradise

Buy the ticket, buy the ticket Take the ride The pleasure's yours and the pain's all mine

Rosemary's baby is rocking in the cradle Eyes wide and staring like she's hypnotized Jacob's ladder is leaning up against the wall Everytime I try to climb it I fall

Looking at you now I see you're barely breathing Yeah, you're barely breathing now Peggy Sue, what the hell's gotten into you?! Call 911 for the 666 yeah Call 911 for the 666 yeah

Dancing with the devil's wife Begging her to take your life Vapid little vampire is staring at my jugular

We've made the nightly news And there's no way that we can lose Smiling slave all dressed in leather What's your poison? What's your pleasure?

Mascara running in a marathon Palm reading hands across america Sleep tight loose, lips are sinking ships I'd kill just to be in your arms again