

Polkadot Cadaver, Sole Survivor

Sole survivor
The guilt is setting in
The plane came crashing down
And I'm the only one who lived
A turbulent flight brought you to this place and time
A one-way ticket to the end of your life

Black and blue angels who float down the aisleways
Smile at children who don't hear a word they say
Fasten your seatbelts you're in for a bumpy ride
Please remain calm in the event of an emergency

You didn't deserve this cruel invitation
You didn't deserve this fucked up situation
I hope you had someone who loved you
I hope you had someone to love

We could blame it all on the moonlight
Is that good enough for you?
We could blame it all on the rising tides
Revenge of the oceans blue
They'll blame it on you

I remember the little boy sitting next to me
Singing to himself without a care of this world
I hope he had someone who loved him
I hope he had someone to love

Come and fly the friendly skies
Oh, what a frightening way that would be to die

Flashbacks of photos of you on your last birthday
Blow out the candles, they told you to wish away
Daydreams of dying, the airplaes came crashing down
This is the day that you've always remembered now

You didn't believe in karma did you?
I think that it believes in you

Sole survivor
The guilt is setting in
The plane came crashing down
And I'm the only one who lived
A turbulent flight brought you to this place and time
A one-way ticket to the rest of my life