

Porter Wagoner, Life Rides The Train

Time waits for no one time never will
But moments of happiness can make time seem still
But time moves on swiftly passes life by while life rides the train time always flies
Life rides the train for some it moves slow
Some never find where their train of life will go
If it's bound to hell or to heaven on high
And while life rides the train time always flies
(guitar)
As life rides the train some get off the track
For one careless moment but never get back
Until it's much too late time has passed them by
So while life rides the train time always flies
Life rides the train...
