

Porter Wagoner, Not A Cloud In The Sky

What a beautiful morning the sun shining bright
As I look from the window with tears in my eyes
The eastern horizon just gave birth to the light
But it's raining in my world and not a cloud in the sky
When you were my shelter and the clouds would appear
You'd hold me close and the sky would soon clear
Now the tiny world I live in without you by my side
The raindrops are falling but not a cloud in the sky
Oh how the sun glistens on my tears falling down
What a lonely feeling since you're not around
Only the echoes of your last goodbye
Keeps the rain a falling but not a cloud in the sky
