

Porter Wagoner, World Without Music

Once my world was filled with music sweet and low
When your love was mine and mine alone
Now my world has lost its melody and my world is without music since you've left me
A world without music not a song to sing
Days filled with silence and nights never endin'
Can't you see how lonely the world would be if the whole world had no music like me

Can you find it in your heart to try again and let my world have one more song to sing
And the music that has died will live again but my world will have no music until then
A world without music...
