

Post Malone, Losers (feat. Jelly Roll)

[Zwrotka]

Last-callers, last-chancers
Nine-to-fivers, truckers, dancers
Couple Chuck's, Ern's, and Chandler's
With a whole lotta prayers unanswered
Whiskey by noon, and beer before that Southbound train on a hell-bound track
Might just put two middle fingers up and throw one back for all the People who ain't ever felt at home
Just spinnin' on a rock and gettin' stoned

[Refren]

Yeah, this one's for the losers
The outcasts and the sinners
The ain't never been no winners
Let's hear it for the losers
Ain't got nowhere to fit in
There's a place you can always get in
Oh
You might be lonely but you're never alone
You're right here where you're supposed to be
Right here with all the losers
The one's like you
And the one's like me

[Zwrotka]

My therapist is a good bartender
Heart breakers and two-month benders
Bad times that we can't forget and
Good times that we won't remember
Raise 'em up when we hear a sad song
Love the cry of a steel guitar
No way to change the way we are

[Refren]

This one's for the losers
The outcasts and the sinners
The ain't never been no winners
Let's hear it for the losers
Ain't got nowhere to fit in
There's a place you can always get in
Oh, oh
You might be lonely but you're never alone
You're right here where you're supposed to be
Right here with all the losers
The one's like you
And the one's like me

If you're livin' like you got nothin' to lose
There's a spot for you beside me on this stool

[Refren]

Come kick it with the losers
The outcasts and the sinners
The ain't never been no winners
Let's hear it for the losers
Ain't got nowhere to fit in
There's a place you can always get in
Yeah, oh
You might be lonely but you're never alone
You're right here where you're supposed to be
Right here with all the losers
The one's like you
And the one's like me
