

Pristina, October

I'll be your guide
Don't follow far behind
Don't lose me now
I can feel you fading
You flicker out of phase
While I am always waiting
I have loved you longer than these days could know
All these waves of sadness
But carry me to you

Through all the world
I've wandered till I'm weary
And placed my faith
In faithless hearts for nothing
But to hope is brave
Or so you've often told me

And oh all this time
To still not let
My heart form words
To say forget
You filled the sky
The day we met
And now the stars all shine through you

And though my dress is worn and grey
I still dance every dance for you

Where there is faith
Then you have made it stronger
Where there is hope
You've made it last much longer
And if there is love
Then you have made it greater
