

Pristina, Sundown

You only want to take the things you want to break
Like my heart in your hands...
Don't act like you don't understand

That you take what you want from me
And you breaking the heart in me

Don't tell me theres life after sundown
When I've seen the moon kiss the sand
The stars touch the water and burn out
Don't tell me you don't understand

That you take you want from me
And you keep what you want to keep
And you leave me adrift at sea
And you know what you do to me

And you drowning inside of me
And you breathing life into me
And you kissing me hopelessly
And you loving me endlessly
