

Private Line, Broken Promised Land

The missing link of the evolution
Is something we can never find
There's nothing left here but confusion
So I'm leaving it behind

It's been a thorn in my side all of my life

I've seen it once, I've seen a thousand times
Read between the lines
The more I seek, the more I find disguise
The hope is gone and everything we stood for
Is slipping through our hands, like the castle in the sand
This is the broken promised land

I can see through their illusions
All for one and none for all
The strongest whisper, "revolution"
Their religion is a loaded gun

For generations to come, it's all said and done

I've seen it once, I've seen a thousand times
Read between the lines
The more I seek, the more I find disguise
The hope is gone and everything we stood for
Is slipping through our hands, like a castle in the sand
This is the broken promised land

When there's a will there's a weapon, dear friend

I've seen it once, I've seen it a thousand times
Read between the lines
The more I seek, the more I find disguise
The hope is gone and everything we stood for
Is slipping through our hands, like a castle in the sand
In the broken promised land

I've seen it once, I've seen it a thousand times
Across the borderlines
The more I seek, the more I find disguise
The hope is gone and everything we stood for
Is slipping through our hands, like a castle in the sand
This is the broken promised land
The broken promised land
