Profound, Agony Falling

Never thought too much About the light that makes the shadow Darkness in my world Have I missed the beauty I know?

Never felt too much About desire before While my hands can touch They are fists no more

Light is an open eye Horizons drift Still notice the firefly Cherish that gift

Always saw too much
Of my shoelaces and dirt
Silence in my world
Have I blurred the music I heard?

Never felt too much About desire before While my hands can touch They are fists no more

Light is an open eye Horizons drift Still notice the firefly Cherish that gift