

Promise Of Redemption, The Lights That Flicker

Hold your breath
'Cause it doesn't even matter
Pray for time to make all this better
Girl you know that everything will work out right

And burn this bridge
I worked so hard to build up
Who's to blame when you don't even give a f**k
Girl you know I hope these lyrics find you well

You know it's better when you find the time
To grow inside yourself
And you know it's better when you realize
You're looking for someone else

So grind your teeth and let it all out like you know how

Choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you never say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before
And I say, choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you gotta say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before

This paper always listens and this pen is always by my side
Yea it wasn't my intention
To have these words be the reason to make you cry
So to wipe your face, just let the tears fall
Like you know how

Choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you never say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before

And I say, choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you gotta say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before

And I say, choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you gotta say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before

And I say, choking back your tears let the awful thing go away
Never have to say what you gotta say
But i think it's all been better before, it's all been better before

(Hold your breath
'Cause it doesn't even matter
Pray for time to make all this better
Girl you know that everything will work out right
And burn this bridge
I worked so hard to build up
Who's to blame when you don't even give a f**k)