

Propagandhi, March Of The Crabs

We stood our ground waiting for the fight to begin. My eyes squinted at the sun, wondering if they'd You never leave anyone behind. A harsh return that slaps you in the face. For one last chance, we
The fight never happened. The crowd petered out. We all dribbled home. Mission accomplished.