

Protocol, Where's The Pleasure?

Now I know I was mad to think that you were mine
How will I ever find somebody beautiful
This is a thought that I've been trying to hide
Because you wasted all my time
That's when I knew
And all the feelings I'd like to share
I love the tangle that's in your hair
I see you now but I can't have you

So I don't try to touch you
I won't undress you with my eyes
No more
Because she won't want me to
And I won't try to hold you
No more fingertips on perfect skin
No more
Because she won't want me to

So where's the pleasure with you?

You killed me inside and you've left me here to die
Why oh why, I'll never find somebody new

And all the feelings I'd like to share
I love the tangle that's in your hair
I see you now but I can't have you

So I won't try to touch you
I won't undress you with my eyes
No more
Because she won't want me to
And I won't try to hold you
No more fingertips on perfect skin
No more
Because she won't want me to

So where's the pleasure with you?

If there's a chance you know I'm there
I'd sell my soul without a care
I see you now but I can't have you

So I don't try to touch you
I won't undress you with my eyes
No more
Because she won't want me to
And I won't try to hold you
No more fingertips on perfect skin
No more
Because she won't want me to

So where's the pleasure with you?
