&lt;/lyrics&gt;

If you laugh it off saying this is said all the time
Then you won't be able to melt into the evening sun like this
The same old scenery becomes a clever poem
I'll sing it to the rhythm of the train

I'm in love with you, I'm swimming dizzily
My breath is ragged
Even if my feeling stops sometimes
I want to get there someday

My foolish etude is spreading out for miles
I want to keep watching the world a little longer

I'm in love with you, I'm kind of floating
I'm about to crack my shell, but I can't quite crack it
Giving up on my dream and then chasing it again
I want to get there someday

My foolish etude is spreading out for miles
I want to keep watching the world a little longer

I want to keep watching
