

Punchline, Cold As You

I'm gonna see you
I'll break through to you some way
You'll be my alarm clock
To wake me from this endless day
And when its all over
Well you'll be calling out for me
Finish what you started
And do it all over
And do it all over again

What am I supposed to do about it
I sit around and wait for you
What am I supposed to say to you
You already know I'm in love with you
(And I hope that you love me too)

You broke me down without saying a thing
All it took was for me to see you with him
I'll pack my bags and move to Alaska
Where it's as cold as you

What am I supposed to do about it
I sit around and wait for you
What am I supposed to say to you
You already know I'm in love with you
(and I hope that you love me too)

What am I supposed to do about it
I sit around and wait for you
What am I supposed to say to you
You already know I'm in love with you
(and I hope that you love me too)

And as I let this note ring out
The only thing I think about
Is how I never took a chance on you
The way you used to look at me
Has changed so clearly I can see
Things will always be so awkward between you and me.
