Punchline, Heart Attack

You told me to turn the other Well I did, I thought it was ok Now I hear that you're never coming back And I'm about to have a heart attack

Medication won't work this time I'll just sit here singing this rhyme You're never coming back And I'll have a heart attack How could you do this to me

Despite my pain I got in my car Had just enough strength to make it to the ER I was long gone when you heard about my death "Thanks for the memories" is what I said with my last breath

Medication won't work this time I'll just sit here singing this rhyme You're never coming back And I'll have a heart attack How could you do this to me
