

Quiet Sun, Corazon Y Alma

Day is coming
And it may not be so far off
When (you'll see?) in the sky
That just you and I are still here
Why couldn't you see just what I am saying
You don't believe

This is (reeling?)
See those horsemen on the horizon
They will wait for the day
When it's too late to say "I'm sorry";
Why couldn't you see just what I am saying
You must believe it will happen this way

Horsemen (reeling?)
And those dancers on the horizon
Now they will run from me
When it's too late to say that they're sorry
Why didn't you see just what I am saying
You will believe

Only the wind (cries?) down on the street
Sounds through the windows without a sound
(.....)
(The(ir) race is now?) homeward bound

Hide from the sun that opened your eyes
Pray for the day to turn to night
(But the road through the dark is the only prize?)
And still you say you were right

Can you see the stars now my love?
They should be shining oh so brightly
This darkness (.....)
